ACCREDITATION OF WARTBURG THOUGHT SURE

Inspection Committee Impressed by Showing Made.

Faculty members and students are optimistic concerning the accreditation of Wartburg following the visit of the Association Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools on January 3. This committee which inspected the grounds and equipment of Wartburg is composed of M. J. Nelson of Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, H. C. Dorcas of State University of Iowa, Iowa City, and L. A. Crowell of Iowa State College, Ames. They were appointed by Dr. Ernest C. Colwell, chairman of the Inter-Collegiate Standing Committee. This sub-committee was very favorably impressed with faculty, equipment, and courses of study at Wartburg and expressed short but pertinent criticisms which had been made in so short a period of time.

Although the committee can make no official statement until the regular meeting in March, it was understood in Waverly that it will be the last time report would be necessary. Dr. Theodore Graebner, chairman of Wartburg's standing committee, said only in regard to accreditation that the committee's report after each session usually has their judgment on this matter ready.

Plans are under way and negotiations are being made for a closer association with the North Central Association and with the American Association of Colleges and University Women to have Wartburg approved also by these agencies.

The American Association of Junior Colleges, a national organization, has approved Wartburg for the two years offered as soon as the requirements of Standing Committee has passed favorably upon the school.

In the near future the State Department will inspect Wartburg Education Department so that official recognition may be given also for the teachers training courses which are being offered in this school.

PLAN ACTIVITIES TO AID EVERYONE

College Extra-Curricular Work Augments Class Room Program.

"Wartburg college aims to have no varied an activity program that it will meet the needs and interests of all." Professor Alf Swenson, chairman of the student activities committee, said, in outlining the activity schedule for the second semester.

"For a complete education, the classroom work should be supplemented by a program which provides for physical development, and opportunity for social individual contact."

He pointed out that for competitive varsity and intramural teams supply his group need, giving every man opportunity to those of keen athletic ability, and at the same time, granting to all attending the chance to satisfy a real appreciation and enjoyment for the various sports which today have become an integral part of American life. This grants an avenue for the display of sportsmanship both on the part of the student participating, and the onlooker on the part of the spectator. The theme of the athletic program must be embodied in all of the activities of life. A forensic activity, a good intramural program, and a well balanced intercollegiate schedule should be found in this school to meet the needs of the contrasting tastes.

A varied program of wholesome recreation in which all can partake, is planned to help in developing complete mental happiness. Such an understanding can only be acquired with the full cooperation of the students.

For those students who are particularly interested in the more cultural activities, there are various musical organizations in which they are urged to partake. The opportunity for literary, and dramatic activity, is also open to those interested. The social activities are also considered to help and stimulate those who are interested in the line of life. To the student body as a whole an opportunity will be opened to learn appreciation for, and to enjoyment of these arts.

The daily convocation period stimulates the spiritual activity of every individual. The devotional period should be further stimulated

ENGINEERS ARE KNIGHTED, LOSE TO WARTBURG 5

Milwaukee Engineers Fail to Hold Early Lead.

The Wartburg Knights played their second consecutive scheduled game with the Milwaukee Engineers when they defeated the strong aggregation by a score of 32-27 on the home floor.

At first a team in the conference that could have defeated the Knights on the night of January 20, Saturday, and the team would have been conceded the championship of the conference by everything right at the right time.

But Wartburg was not, so it had a lead and its accuracy the visitors had on the closing night of the tourney did not look any too spectacular. Wartburg had a good defense around themselves and before one knew it had a comfortable margin in the lead. The score assumed from then on to the final gun when a total of 14-14 was reached. Here both teams became fearful of mistakes, unless the score remained in a deadlock.

During the closing minutes of the game Ernie Kruse, Wartburg forward was fouled and slanted by Kepler, scored three points and the game was lost to the next Wartburg 17, Milwaukee 14.

The season ends for the Wartburg, with the exception of several sports played by the various clubs. The Knights hold to their slim margin in the loop at that writing, and it seems when the visitors seemed to let up and the game started to be a deserved victory for Wartburg to the tune of 37-31.

Kepler, who had considerable difficulty in keeping his eyes glued on the basket, and Harden were the stars for the Milwaukee team. The former scoring 14 points and the latter 13. The performances of these two stars was superb, making one think in the light of what opposing would have been exceptional performance and of the opposition. Opperman played a long up distance shot which was counted in the middle of every play, much to the disappointment of the Wartburg rooters.

For Milwaukee, Dalton and Wiskerchen, closely followed by Lentz were stalwarts on offense and defense. On foul shots Wiskerchen has five, in any years, sinking six out of seven attempts.

The victory of the Knights over the Milwaukee Engineers escaped the entire completion of the conference and another defeat of the Engineers would give the Knights the conference title. It is said of the conference honors.

The Knights will team win a close victory in the preliminary game over the Milwaukee quintet by the devotional exercises held daily among fellow Christian students. Since our library is well supplied with all types of religious books and periodicals, by reading the student can increase his religious knowledge. Christianity courses are required of all Wartburg students. The rather alone that studies together will pray together. It is fellowship with other Christian students that makes the college real and every's spiritual life.

REV. OLSON WILL SPEAK ON CRIME

Minneapolis Prison Chaplain Will Talk on Prevention of Delinquency Feb. 11.

"Crime prevention, the challenge of the hour," will be the subject of Rev. Roy D. Olson's address to be given at convocation on February 11. Rev. Olson, of Minneapolis, is prisons prison chaplain of the Lutheran church, and was formerly chaplain of the Minnesota State Reformatory. He has dealt with hundreds of delinquents in penal institutions and with thousands of young people in his campaign for crime prevention.

His work is held in high esteem by officials of the state, municipal courts, and he is recommended by leading educators and social workers.

The Wartburg on the Hill

On Bedloe Island in New York harbor stands a large bronze figure holding aloft a flaming torch, and greeting the immigrant as he approaches the new world.

October 28th, this noble symbol of liberty will celebrate her fiftieth birthday. Her mighty right arm holds the torch on high, while a bulky volume is encircled by her left. Why not a stout sword in her right hand and a protective shield on her left arm? Why not a militant figure adorned that she represents enlightment, knowledge, and learning. More powerful than shining steel, of gilded shield is the book which she holds in her arm.

Her flaming torch opens the eyes of men that they may not grope about in the darkness of ignorance like a mole, which encourages strife and distrust. The statue of liberty is eloquent of the international spirit of our land.

Wartburg college, basing its teachings upon the word of God, has even a greater message than the flaming lamp and the encircled book. It is a Christian college for training the youth of the midwestern American Lutheran church, to fit their hearts with the light of the message of Jesus Christ. It is her mission to prepare young men for the ministry, and to prepare young men and women for the duties of life. Her courses of study, her workers, her atmosphere, all are centered about that word which is a light unto men's paths and a lamp unto their ways.

She is striving valiantly with the means at her disposal to fulfil her mission. How well she will succeed, the future will tell. Friends of the college are asked to visit her frequently, only does she request that names of prospective students be sent to those in charge. So that when the time for them to graduate, that the torch may not be dimmed. She pleads with her friends that they may remember her in their prayers, and that, as they fill their offerings at the time of their sacrifices, they will not neglect to assist her program.

LIBRARY

All our visitors remark about our fine library facilities. They see the well-lit reading room, the handy stacks, the attractive and inviting shelves, the many books. "A school with so many books," they say, "certainly has a fine library."

The more discriminating visitor examines our reference section and finds a number of half-priced reference works. There is the new Britannica ($120), there the Dictionary of American Biography ($20), there the Allgemeine Deutsche Biographie ($40), and there the Weimar edition of Luther's Works ($100). And seeing all these costly investments and also a multitude of carefully selected, domestic and foreign, and discriminating visitor says, "Certainly, a fine library!"

And the still more discriminating inspector of libraries puts on a visit and makes his rounds. He walks through the stacks, stops in rest rides, begins his inspection with the 100's (Philosophy), proceeds in the 200's (Religion), pauses on in the 300's (Social Sciences), and so on to the 900's. This critic of modern college wants to know whether the library is well-balanced, whether one department is as "live" as the other department, whether the condition of new books are kept as new as when first put in department. Having made his careful inspection, he turns with a smile and says, "A fine well-balanced library!"

We agree, of course. But visitors have a way of seeing only what you have; they seldom inquire what you need. The process of converting a stack of books into a library is rather costly. The purchase of books is such order that one can find any given title within a minute requires an immense amount of work, and, we might as well add, a great amount of money. For that work can only be done by an expert.

The great need of Wartburg college library is a fund of money that will enable us to convert our crowded collection of books into a well-working library. Can the Alumni think of any more worthy project than collecting a sum of money which will help us to put our library into first class shape?

DEAN EXPLAINS THE PLACE OF BUDGETING

"Orientation laboratory! What's that?" asks the Freshman, with somewhat bewildered awe getting a D in his last final.

"That is a course which will teach you the efficiency and technique in study habits, and, if you will pay attention for a few minutes, I will show you how you can remedy your deficiency.

"In the first place, do you know how to budget your time? Let me help you to work out a time schedule which will help you find sufficient hours to study for these college courses which require more effort than do the high school courses.

"In the second place, let me show you how to study effectively. How to concentrate. How to find the main points, and how to memorize.

"Thirdly, get rid of that false sense of security which makes that all is well even if you cut classes, fail in your quizzes, and fail even in your reference and collateral reading. Don't think that you will get by because some of the upper classmen tell you that such and such a course is 'duke' or 'pap proper;' it does happen that students flunk out and this can be avoided if students come in their college officials rushing for help getting advice from those on else.

"Furthermore, don't think that you can take a full schedule of college courses in addition to working your way through college. This is a fallacy which has caused many hurdle in addition to many an early work. Above all, watch your health. You can't do your best work if your physical condition is run down, and you have to miss classes because

INTEGRATION OF EDUCATION AND CHRISTIANITY

Unity of Aim Goal of Wartburg to Best Develop Student.

By Dr. J. H. Hillner

"Integration" has become the watchword in education. The process of differentiation, of multiplying courses and of specialization and elective has reached the point where confusion is resulting. Education, what is it, asyhow! L. P. Jacks, recalling to college days, has "There was one set of questions who thinks—and another set who trained our minds in the grammatical days when a thing gentleman, who was and a scholar, who knew about a work before the females

Rainbow Around the Sun

A rainbow around the sun is the reflection of the light in the colors of the rainbow, and to the same other. It is caused by differ- ence of light by minute ice crystals or drops of water floating in the air.

The Eyes of Fish

The eyes of fish are like our own in structure and function, but in relative modifications. Myxine are absent, so that they are regarded as degenerate. The eyeball has little power of movement; the crystalline lens is more or less spherical in form and the retina has no centralpit or yellow spot. In some species of deep-sea fishes, as the Macrurus, the eyes are enormously developed. While in the Stomiatidæ they are rudimentary as compared with those of the higher vertebrates, a few have small orbits or none at all that are visible, and in the Cyclostomes there is a tendency to degeneration of the eyes.

The American Jack

The jack was the first domestic animal to be used for carrying burdens. Jacks were introduced into Mexico by King David. In 1787 the king of Spain presented George Washington with a jack and jennet. Another was presented from the royal herd of Malta. Cows were brought from Peruvian mountains to Spain. Subjects from Ireland to Cyprus. Potter Palmer's stock farm at Lemont, in Illinois, American jacks 15 to 16 hands high, weighing 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, heart girth 70 to 72 inches, and stand from 8 to 10½ inches. Color, black.

science has a shifting effect on higher souls, especially when they come in college with a kindergarten education in religion. The impact of the various studies and the ever increasing number of "outside" activities make it difficult for the student to keep a well-balanced body, mind and soul. Hence the necessity of unity of aim and an integrating force. There is the personality of the student which offers material for integration. Every student has a personality of his own. We remember the indictment of our own Lutheran students by student Hinderlie of St. Olaf college who was impressed by the "many" number of fence-sitting Christians in our church academies. They grow but must dialectegrate because they refuse to surrender their lives to the only integrating force in the universe, Jesus." Finally, there is the subject-matter to be fraught in our school with the vitality and intellect to a Christian interpretation. Here is a pioneering project of great difficulty, but of immense significance. What a challenge all this must present to the teacher and a goal of arithmetic in a Christian college. "Because it is important on account of our children and children's children" as our presidential message to the Israelites' stress of all kinds occur in the building of the ark and Solomon's temple", the difficulty of integration apparently.

Yet, a serious effort is being made by our teachers to find a basis on which the student may relate his work with Christian principles and ideals as possible without forcing the issue. And there are a number of teachers of outstanding ability whose work make fine ideals and points of the integration. In our devotionals we find the faculty members using Bible reading and prayer are effective as the daily worship. There are our daily convocations where students and faculty gather in a devotional spirit. No one will doubt the integrating force of a talk in which not only president and Bible teacher but the strictest teacher and the history teacher and the could and every other man on the faculty bear witness to the fruits which is useful. The unity of outlook upon and the spirit of reverence which should prevail, however, is the objectives as it is Christianity as a not a mere appendix, but the rallying center of our work.

These are the foundations on which we hope to build a still stronger and more integrated program.

Everything to Build Anything

Stress Dormitory Life As A Part of Wartburg Education

Offer Varied Contacts as Way of Building Student Character.

By MISS K. KAISER,
Dean of Women.

The function of the college is to train its students for a happy and successful life. The college curriculum is so arranged that the student is mentally and intellectually prepared to carry on his life's work. But so much more than mental training is needed in modern times if our young people are to meet successfully the very difficult life the college is to give full cultural training through more casual class contacts.

But trought dormitory life it is possible to give a full cultural background to the students. In our dormitory life here at Wartburg we are endeavoring to instill in our young people a full and complete understanding of group living, and all that it entails. In order to realize this objective we have certain simple standards which make it possible for everyone to be equal and to feel that he will have a happy group life.

It is not only the curriculum of the institution or a dormitory family routine that will give an opportunity of developing personalities as individuals. The contacts which are made are many and various; each person must attempt to learn and understand every other person if there is to be complete harmony. Everyone is immeasurably richer as a result of the contact; they have come face to face with many good traits which they might do well to imbibe into their own character; they have had an opportunity of developing their own and points as improved in others.

The cultural likes and dislikes of various individuals vary. Through contact with one another it is possible to develop many of these tastes.

So dormitory life can teach us to get along with the various kinds of people. Half of life is spent getting along with others, so if one can learn to adjust himself to harmony with others, it has helped us to achieve one of the foremost steps toward real life happiness.

The dormitory life can also serve as a groundwork in food and health habits. This job has been set up because all of our students, both men and women, eat together. This gives the young people a chance to become more informally acquainted than is possible through class contacts. Since the host and hostess are in charge of their table, it is their responsibility to see that the needs and desires of their group are satisfied, in so far as it is possible. It is up to them to so guide the table conversation that all are included and feel at ease.

There are good practical lessons in learning to be thoughtful of others, in passing things until you feel like it, more also simple, yet formally correct table etiquette can be very informally guided. Through frequent rearrangement of the seating in the dining room, everyone is given ample opportunity to become acquainted with the entire group. This training should tend to develop in our students ease, charm and poise to meet any situation with which they might be faced.

Wartburg aims to impart to its students, not only a sense of true values which will help them to formulate true judgments in life but also the cultural polish which the times demand from its educated class.

KNIGHTS CARRY OFF 33-23 WIN OVER GOSLINGS

Wartburg Gets Fourth Conference Win Here Friday.

Coach Hirtel's Wartburg Knights resumed their winning ways when they romped the Northwestern Goslings by a 33-23 score, here Friday, January 31. It was the fourth conference win for the Knights against five defeats and the second win over Northwestern, having previously defeated the Wisconsin aggregation at Watertown.

The game started out as a slow affair with the Knights unable to penetrate the Goslings' zone defense for the first few minutes. The Goslings scored the scoring by sinking a free throw, but Christiansen, Weyrens and Kretschmar combined to ring up five points in quick succession and from then on the outcome of the contest was never in doubt. The Black and Orange continued to set a blistering pace, chalking up 17 points in the first half while allowing the Northwestern team a grand total of but two field goals and two caught shots for six points.

On the first play in the second period Opperman sank a field goal to run up the score to 19-6. Wartburg, but the Goslings came back with a stunning rally, dropping in four baskets before the Knights were able to regain their poise and match the will-o'-the-wisp attack with a comfortable margin which they gave relinquished. After this early second half spurt, the Goslings never seriously threatened the Wartburg lead.

Opperman and Harden shared scoring honors, each splitting the pot for four baskets from the floor and one from the free throw line. Christiansen, playing in the second half, succeeded in challenging Harden's mark of 9 points with 8 points.

Wartburg Quint Has Average of 32.6 Points

The Wartburg basketball team has netted 196 points, making a record of games played thus far 32.6. They have won seven of the ten games played losing their three games by conference foes by small margins. Only twice has the Wartburg quint been held to less than 30 points and in being defeated once over the team by more than a six point margin. The three conference defeats were by one point margins. The Knights before Christmas and since have won from all but one of the conference teams by a comparable margin. The second record is that of Speckmann, Wartburg, Loras, Dubuque, Wartburg, 30; Independence, 30; played at Waverly.

KNIGHTS LOSE ON WISCONSIN TRIP

Defeated by Engineers 37-32, by Mission House 48-42, On Successive Nights.

The Wartburg Knights dropped two big-State Conference contests last game last week-end and a game at the top of the class, they were defeated by the Milwaukee Engineers on Jan. 24 by the score of 37-32 and were again defeated on the following night when they took to Mission House 48-42.

The two losses put the Knights out of the running for the conference championship as they suffered defeats against no defeats for Platteville and Milwaukee Engineers.

Behind the shamshooting of Delmon and Wilkins, two of the league's leading scorers, Milwaukee was able to gain an early lead which they never relinquished. At the half time Milwaukee was leading at the half 20-13. The Milwaukee team came back strong at the start of the second half and ran the score up to 30-18 before the Knights strong rally started to function. The Knights drew up to within three points of the Milwaukee team but failed to find basket to close the score 37-32.

The following night the Wartburg cagers appeared to have left their old form and were able to pull up a lead in the first few minutes of the game, but Mission soon took strong command and at the first half to run the score up to 26-20. The game continued to even the second half, but the Knights drew up to within three points of the leaders but could not find eye and Mission enjoyed a 48 to 42 victory at the game's close.

Dalton, Lenz and Wilkins led the scoring for the Engineers, while Mission House was paced by Steinmetz and Waverly with six counters each. Hoffman was high man for the Knights with 12 points.

The Knights will meet the Mission House and Waverly here on Friday, February 28, with both games starting at 7:30 p. m. The following week-end the Knights will journey to Platteville for the return conference games.

KNIGHTS TRAVEL FOR IOWA GAMES

Independence, Elkader, Lenox Will Be Junior College Opponents Soon.

The Knights will engage in three return contests in the next two weeks with junior colleges which they played in the earlier part of the year. All games will be played away from home when the Knights meet Independence, Elkader and Lenox on the fourth, seventh and eleventh of February respectively.

In the previous tilts with these teams the Wartburg squad emerged three victories. They defeated Lenox on Dec. 7 by the score of 37-24 and the following week registered a win over Independence on the 13th by score of 36-26, and the following night they defeated Elkader 39-23.

The Wartburg quintet has improved greatly since the opening games with these schools and should experience no great difficulty in tipping them for the second time, although the Lenox quintet has been winning nearly all of their early games in the Iowa Junior race loop up to the present.

These games together with a home and house series with Iowa Falls will serve as breathers before the Tri-State tilts with Mission House and the league leaders, Waverly at the end of the month.

Knight Flashes

The Knights didn't fare so well on their last jaunt into Wisconsin, losing both to Milwaukee and to Mission House. Although the preceding tilts with Waverly always gave the Knights had for scoping the scoring honors this season, Waverly entrenches have a good chance of finishing high in the conference standings. Their record may not appear very impressive as yet with three and won the same number of defeats, but the set-table of contests are played in the Knights' favor background. Waverly has the basketball floor and their goods down on Coach Hirtel's men.

These last two weeks find the Hawkeyes recovering their attack against non-conference foes. Previous to the season the Knights have turned in victories over each of the three Hawkeye teams on the next fortnight, but the Knights have come back strong since and the Lenox quintet leading the conference race by a comfortable margin.

Two games remain on the conference fall after the Knights encounters with the Engineers and Mission Bookies this last week end. Both games will find the Knights on the scoring end, having suffered earlier in the season. The boys meet Mission House away from on Saturday, February 22, and clash with the Engineers at Waverly Thursday, February 28, this latter game is the postponed game of January 16.

In the scoring race within the league Nyrens and Harden have been sharing the honors with the former leading scorer. Kepler Opperman from his guard position has managed to garner 22 points in the six conference games up to Wednesday's games.

WARTBURG WINS 31 TO 23 OVER MILTON QUINTET

Knights Rally After Trailing and Win Quite Easily.

Milton invaded the Knights' stronghold and was defeated on Tuesday, Jan. 28 by a 31-23 score. The game was a well played contest and the Knights showed their second victory within ten days over the visiting Milton team, having defeated the Wisconsinites on January 11 by a 33-28 score.

The game started out slow and before the Hawkeyes were able to settle they found themselves trailing by a score of 8-0. When they then took time out to reorganize their offense and during the remainder of the first half succeeded in holding the Milton team to eight points and a free throw while they poured 19 points through the hoop to emerge at the half with a comfortable eight point lead, 19-11.

This lead was increased early in the second period until at one time the Knights were commanding a 24 to 12 lead. With the score at 27 to 17, Opperman, star Wartburg forward, was removed via the personal foul route and Milton's Miller, converted two free throws in the score to 27 to 23. But Knights, however, successfully staged off the late Milton rally and dropped in a few set baskets to make the score 31 to 23, at which time Coach Hirtel sent in his entire second string who held the opponents to one basket, ending the game 31-23, Wartburg.

Nyrens was high scorer of the evening with 12 points while Sunday, and Miller formed well for the Milton outfit. Wartburg had the matches under Wartburg team showed a well-rounded and polished style of basketball with no outstanding stars.

In a curtain raiser the Wartburg B squad nursed in another thriller, winning 22-21 when Seidel dropped in his one of two free throws after the gun had sounded. The Shell Rock team was the best.
